

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A gasket having an integrated sensor is provided for use in a fuel cell assembly. The gasket having a generally planar form and including a protruding portion extending outwardly in a direction substantially planar to a top surface of the gasket; and a sensor formed on the protruding portion of the gasket.